He was the one who forged The Frenzy, the treasured blade of the Colosseum, and there was a time when people collapsed from the far corners of Hydaelyn to break a man's creation of everything from baghnaks to mudslide. Gerolt has since fallen far. It all started when he was young and in his cups. He had a warm exchange with his foregemaster, beat him up, and was immediately thrown out. He then drove out onto the road, travelled around the resort and served day after day as a wandering artisan. At the moment, much of the boundless prestige of his youth is gone, and he makes and puts a kettle on the kettle just to pay off the excesses from the previous night in the local concoit. Still, Gerolt's abilities remain as sharp as the day he left, and some are guessing that he just wants a chance to create the legendary weapon again. This NPC is found in several locations. This article needs some pictures. You may be able to help by uploading the image. Eureka Weapon is a series of ultimate weapons that adventurers can acquire in Final Fantasy XIV: Stormblood. The forbidden land of Eureka is full of chaotic ether energies. Gerolt, the legendary blacksmith, can use them to create even more powerful weapons. All materials for Eureka Weapons can be found in the forbidden land of Eureka. Unlike previous final weapons, materials for Eureka Weapons can be collected with each class. Anemos weapon[edit | arrange source] First iteration, Anemos weapons, can be acquired in Eureka Anemos using Protean Crystals to strengthen antiquated weapons acquired to reach level 70. Protean crystals can be obtained by completing FATES in Eureka Anemos, or rarely as ordinary enemy drops. The final upgrade requires Pazuzu's Feathers, which can be obtained by completing the fate of Wail in the Willows or by trading in 300 Protean Crystals on a pen. Complementing Anemos weapons adds glowing effects. They were presented in patch 4.25. Materials for Weapon Rate Antiquated None 290 +0.100 Protean Crystals 335 +1.400 Protean Crystals 340 +2.800 Protean Crystals 345 Anemos 3 Pazuzu Feathers 355 Pagos Weapon[edit | edit source] Other iteration, Elemental weapons, in Eureka Pagosu can be pro purchased using frosted Protean Crystals and Pagos Crystals to further reinforce Anemos's weapons. Pagosa crystals are produced in the same way as Protean crystals within the borders of Eureka Pagos. Frozen protean crystals can be obtained by building light. Almost every FATE and enemy in Eureka, when defeated, grant a different amount of light, when the light rod is filled, the player will receive Vitiated Aether Crystal, which can be mistaken for a frozen protean crystal. The final upgrade requires Louhi's ice, which can be obtained by completing the FATE of Louhi on ice or by trading in 50 Pagos Crystals on ice. Completing elemental weapons changes the appearance of the weapon, but removes the glow. They were presented in patch 4.36. Weapon Materials Element Degree Pagos 5 Frozen Protean Crystals 360 Pagos +1.10 Frozen Protean Crystals, 500 Pagos Crystals 365 Elemental 16 Frosted Protean Crystals, 5 Louhi's Ice 370 Pyros weapons[edit | edit source] Third iteration, the Pyros weapon, can be acquired in Eureka Pyros using Pyros Crystals to further empower the Elemental weapon. Pyros Crystals are obtained in the same way as Protean crystals within the borders of Eureka Pyros. Final upgrade requirement Flames that can be retrieved by completing the FATE of the Lost Epic or by trading in 50 Pyros Crystals on flame. Complementing Pyros weapons adds glowing effects. They were presented in a 4.45 patch. Additional secondary data may be randomly added to the final phase by exchanging two lychee proteae crystals obtained by agricultural light in the same way as in Eureka Pagos. This siate can be rolled again several times by exocuting two more lye proteas of crystals each time until the player gets a set of stats, and they are happy with them. Weapon Materials Elemental +1.150 Piros Crystals 375 Elemental +2.200 Piros Crystals 380 Piros 300 Piros Crystals, 5 Penhthesia's Flames 385 Hydatos weapons[edit | edit origin] The exact iteration can be purchsed in Eureka Hydatos using Hydatos Crystals for additional weapons training. Hydatos Crystals are obtained in the same way as Protean crystals within the borders of Eureka Hydatos. The final upgrade requires Crystalline Scales, which can be obtained by completing late crystalline provenance, and unlike the equivalent items from the previous steps can not be obtained in any other way. Completing the basic weapon changes the appearance of the weapon, and the final upgrade of Eureka adds a glowing effect. They were presented in patch 4.55. Eureka weapons can be further upgraded to Physeseo weapon by acquiring Eureka Fragments from Arsenaf's Baldesion, although this only increases their damage inside Eureka and Baldesion Arsenal and otherwise does not change their stat or appearance.
